

Martin Belsky: Serial Candidate and Serial Dean

William S. Jordan

Dean Marty Belsky (2008–2012) capped his long career as an administrator—three deanships and other positions—at The University of Akron. He pressed for a new law school building, raising a substantial amount of the money. He also pressed for increased practical instruction and stronger clinics. He was also very active in the University and the broader community, with a deep commitment to veterans and to diversity.
